Australian Medical Centres

Invest in one of Australia's largest and fastest growing Industries

Today, the health industry is one of the largest and fastest growing in our society, and "Australian Medical Centres" is meeting the demand by developing modern 'state of the art' medical centres, and supplying highly qualified personnel to meet this increasing demand.

After extensive research and development, and with a proven track record in the establishment of independent medical centres, the company was formed via a strategic alliance. Paul Reynolds, a pioneer of Queensland Bulk Billing Medical Centres, together with Matthew Robertson and Garry Biffin, founding partners in Queensland Resort Development Corporation (a "Top 100 Company"), have amalgamated resources to form Australian Medical Centres Pty Ltd. Hon. Nick Dondas AM, a former Deputy Chief Health Minister for the Northern Territory has become Executive Chairman.

With the rapid expansion of the health industry, a number of new centres are currently being established. Participants in the board of directors are individuals who are successful in their own venture, and are committed to innovative change.

Within the structure of the bulk billing system, Australian Medical Centres' services are funded, officially documented and recorded by the Federal Government. The majority of income is being paid directly by the Federal Government on a regular direct deposit basis. As a result, all medical centres run on a no-risk, nil-cash, no-debt transaction basis with minimised accounting and banking procedures thus reducing costs and increasing profits.

Expanding from its base on the Sunshine coast, once an area of need has been established, the company applies to the Federal Government for approval, then seeks out a suitable location for the centre based on predetermined criteria to achieve the most success. Centres commence initially with 1 to 2 doctors, but it is envisaged that most centres will run up to 4 doctors.

Through a volume network of centres, the introduction of overseas doctors, and the additional levies accompanying approved "areas of need", the centres established by Australian Medical Centres operate on lower overheads and increased levies paid by the Government. In doing so the Centres can easily afford to operate under a total "Bulk Billing" basis. This also ensures a cashless and debt free system, with income secured by the fact that it is guaranteed and paid directly by the Australian Federal Government.

Each centre remains a small business, which is professionally managed externally under agreement, deriving one source of secured income with minimal costs, staffing and liabilities.

Medical Centre Shareholdings

It is intended that at least an additional 20 centres be established in Queensland and a further 50 or more established around Australia and overseas, 10 centres per region will be established simultaneously.

Available shareholdings are 4 shares per centre and are only available to Australian persons. Shareholders are responsible for the management of the centre and any other obligations that may arise.

Shareholders are required to pay any additional costs including; stamp duties, transfer fees and legal fees. All set-up costs relating to the purchase of shares are included in the initial purchase amount. Dividend returns are paid to the shareholder from the profits of the individual centre on a quarterly basis via the company's accountants, KPMG, one of the world's largest accounting firms. Shareholders can on-sell their shares at any time in the future.

Interested purchasers are requested initially to complete an 'Expression of Interest' form and pay a deposit of $10,000. The balance of the fees are payable upon settlement.

The all up cost of purchasing a 20% share in a centre is $150,000. This includes an E Banc Trade component of 25%. Finance can be arranged to approved purchasers.

Based on current and previous trading figures, once fully established for at least one quarter with 2 doctors, each centre should return a minimum profit of around $10,000 per month, or $2,500 per month to each shareholder, equivalent to an annual return rate of around 20%. It is estimated that each centre requires around 90 days to become established and for cash flow to commence.

Further information is available by contacting Pat Burns on 0414 606 907.

As with all investment opportunities available from within our membership base, we strongly recommend you seek independent advice from your Financial Advisor, Accountant or Solicitor before reaching a decision. E Banc Trade is in no way endorsing this offer.

Information is now out of date. Please contact Australian Medical Centres for current information
